

CO-ART

NEWSLETTER 3

As part of the Co-ART project's efforts to enhance communication skills in education, a series of teacher workshops were implemented across schools in Spain and Ireland.

Co-Art workshops for teachers

In both Spain and Ireland, the workshop structure followed a cascading model where two lead teachers per school received initial training and then transferred their knowledge to colleagues. This model was highly effective in both countries, reaching approximately 43 teachers in Spain and 48 in Ireland.

Participating schools

In Spain, the partner Villafuente collaborated with four schools:

CEIP José de la Torre y Del Cerro

CEIP Averroes

CEIP Alcalde Pedro Barbudo

CPR Vía Augusta Villaharta

In Ireland, the partner I&F engaged with five primary schools:

Educate Together Stepside

St. Patrick's National School, Rathfarnham

Ballyroan Boys National School

Holy Child National School, Ballyogan

St. Fergal's National School, Bray

Multiplier Events in Ireland and Spain

We recently hosted two CO-ART Multiplier Events:

 Dublin, Ireland

On March 29 in Bushy Park, teachers and youth workers explored outdoor, arts-based communication techniques and returned inspired to harness art in their teaching

 Córdoba, Spain

On March 27 at Edificio Baobab, educators dove into hands-on art-integration workshops and left energized with fresh classroom ideas.
